

ELECCIÓN DE PROYECTOS BARRIALES

— 2018 —

ZONA 1

VILLA RAFFO - JOSÉ INGENIEROS

MARCÁ CON UNA CRUZ HASTA TRES PROYECTOS

	PROYECTO	PRESUPUESTO ESTIMADO
1	Campaña preventiva sobre salud - Cursos de RCP.	$ 150.000
2	Arreglo de techos de salita de Salud N° 2.	$ 1.000.000
3	Arreglos de consultorios del Centro Materno Infantil N° 3.	$ 850.000
4	Colocación de juegos y mejoras en placita de Barrio Villa Risso.	$ 900.000
5	Colocación de cestos de basura en centro comercial de José Ingenieros.	$ 60.000
6	Incorporar luminaria LED en la Plaza Chile.	$ 500.000

TOTAL PROYECTOS FACTIBLES $ 3.460.000

Presupuesto Participativo Villa Raffo, José Ingenieros 2018 $ 1.062.000

(1) Los montos presupuestados para cada proyecto son aproximados y serán ajustados una vez que los vecinos hayan elegido los proyectos ganadores.

(2) Las localizaciones definitivas de las cámaras se darán donde mejor cubran el interés general de seguridad del barrio definido por la Secretaría de Seguridad.

Nombre y apellido:

DNI:

Domicilio:

Mail:

Firma:

Municipalidad de Tres de Febrero

the fact that the de facto government is not recognized by the international community.

It is also important to note that the de facto government is not necessarily the only government in the country. There may be other groups or individuals who claim to be the legitimate government.

Therefore, the de facto government is not necessarily the only government in the country, and it is not necessarily the most legitimate government.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.

It is important to understand the difference between de facto and de jure governments, and to understand the implications of each.

The de facto government is the government that is in actual control of the country, while the de jure government is the government that is recognized by the international community.